

Beauty bar

▲ Powerful drop

Aussies are known for liking a drink – but it's not only your tastebuds (and some say your heart) that can benefit from a glass of red wine. Che Moist Plus contains the anti-ageing antioxidant Resveratrol, derived from the skin of grapes, to enhance skin elasticity and stimulate cell turnover for a firmer looking skin. RRP$88 from Clinic Aesthetic at the Mater Private Clinic, South Brisbane or online at www.cheskinicare.com.au

▲ Perfect pedi

Any girl on the run will have discovered by now you just can't rush a good pedi. Even with the best intentions, and a pair of spa waffle-weave slides, it's almost impossible to keep toe nail colour perfect on the journey from salon to home. Anne Hayek gets it – in fact she's even done something about it. Hayek has developed Australia's first special-purpose post-pedi shoe. It's non-slip, ultra-soft and light-weight but sturdy enough to walk in and toe separators are built-in to stop smudges before you get home. RRP$39.95. Available online at www.keyahdesign.com.au.

Intense view ▶

In case you hadn't noticed, the new eye colours are intense – no more Miss Natural. It's easy to get the look with Phyt's Touche De Lumière Mineral Eyeshadows in Starry Violet, Aquamarine, Rose Terracotta and more. Or use Subliminateur, a gel applied like an eyeliner, then follow with a sweep of the organic powder shadow for intense eye definition. Powder RRP$25, Gel RRP$23 from selected spas. See www.phyts.com.au.

Bon voyage ▼

Is your tax return telling you you're too skint to go anywhere? Cheer yourself up with a splash of the luxurious Voyage d'Hermès and you'll immediately feel like a million dollars. It's also unisex so you can get your partner to pitch in for half and share it. It has a base of musky woodiness with a fresh accent. It's perfectly portable for travelling, no matter how far you're going. RRP$130 at selected department stores and Hermès boutiques only.
