

Softly, softly for a greater appeal

ALLIRA PREECE
precea@qst.newsLtd.com.au

WHEN the words 'chemical face peel' are mentioned, many people shy away in fear of looking like a blistering mess post-treatment.

But these days, a range of mild facial peels are made to be so gentle, they can even be performed in your lunch hour with no side effects what-so-ever.

Brisbane's Clinic Aesthetic is gearing up for summer with a range of Chirally Correct Peels and Facials containing a range of natural and organic ingredients they boast will be kind to even the most sensitive skin types.

Whether you're looking to brighten your complexion or correct fine lines or wrinkles, Clinic Aesthetic staff will help choose the best option.

In a recent visit to the clinic, I was amazed.

A consultation with nurse Kim Cheah saw me gain knowledge about my skin type and the best suited peel to cater for my needs.

➔ Continued page 53

At first I was very wary of what the outcome might be, but after undergoing a replenishing Benefit Peel packed with antioxidants, Vitamin C and Vitamin A, my skin felt refreshed and rejuvenated with no redness or peeling days later.

"The Benefit Peel works by deeply stimulating tissue and collagen in the face and also serves to balance the oil-producing sebaceous glands' overproduction of oil that can often be the major contributing cause of acne," Ms Cheah said.

Benefit peels can be performed on people of all age groups and any skin types.

They have proven beneficial to skin conditions including skin pigmentation, acne, scarring and dehydration.

➔ For more information on the latest peels and other treatments visit www.ClinicAesthetic.com.au, or call into the office at 550 Stanley St, South Brisbane.

ALLIRA Preece in the soft hands of Kim Cheah at Clinic Aesthetic; and the end result (below right)

PAMPER PLACE: Brisbane's Clinic Aesthetic has geared up for an appealing summer approach